

Dear Patients,

After 50 years of enjoying the profession of dentistry, I have decided to hang up my dental handpiece. I am going to miss it and it truly has been an honor to be your dentist. The good news is that Dr. Angela Ojibway, Dr. Sarah Thornton, the staff, and the dental care provided to you will continue to be outstanding.

Dr. Angela Ojibway and I have worked together since she acquired the office in 2013; and Dr. Sarah Thornton and I when she joined us last year. You will find they are both very caring, talented and compassionate professionals who share my commitment to dentistry. This fall, I will be turning your dental care needs over to their capable hands. Also, the staff that you are used to seeing will still be here for you. I will work closely with everyone to ensure a smooth transition in response to your specific needs.

I appreciate your patronage you have extended me over these many years. I have always considered our patients and the staff as friends. Again, many thanks for everything.

Dr. Charles E. Glover, III
